Report Highlights:

This report provides an update on Vietnam's government restructuring related to bioethanol-blended gasoline. As part of recent efforts to streamline government operations, the Ministry of Industry and Trade did not merge with other ministries but instead reorganized internally. Oversight of ethanol-blended gasoline regulation, trade, and distribution now falls under a newly created office, the Agency for Domestic Market Surveillance and Development.

Summary

One of the responsibilities of Vietnam's Ministry of Industry and Trade (MOIT) is to oversee the production, trade, and distribution of petroleum products, including gasoline, natural gas, liquefied gas, and other related products, in accordance with the law. This authority is outlined in Decree 40/2025, issued by the Government of Vietnam on February 25, 2025.

The Agency for Domestic Market Surveillance and Development is a new department-level agency under MOIT. It was formed by merging the Vietnam Directorate of Market Surveillance and the Department of Domestic Market. The Agency is responsible for managing and developing the domestic market and for coordinating international cooperation in these areas. According to MOIT Decision 939, issued on April 2, 2025, the Agency's key roles related to alcohol and petroleum products are outlined below.

- Lead and coordinate with relevant state agencies to draft and submit to the Minister of Industry and Trade regulations on prohibited and restricted goods and services for commerce, as well as conditions for the trading of goods such as alcohol, petroleum, and gas. This also includes regulations on managing the distribution of goods by traders and enterprises involved in domestic commerce, the development of distribution networks for petroleum, gas, and alcohol, and the inspection and supervision of petroleum storage and reserves.
- Carry out the verification, appraisal, and submission to Ministry leadership for the approval, issuance, reissuance, amendment, supplementation, extension, or revocation of permits, licenses, certificates, and commercial confirmations, in accordance with current laws, for entities engaged in the business of tobacco, alcohol, petroleum, and gas.
- Conduct inspections directly or coordinate with central and local agencies, functional forces, organizations, and individuals to inspect and address violations related to the trade of smuggled goods, the production and sale of counterfeit or prohibited goods, goods of unknown origin, intellectual property rights violations, violations concerning quality, measurement, pricing, food safety, commercial fraud, and breaches of consumer protection laws.
